

MEC Makamu publicly hand-over Rambuda Traditional Council Office

Traditional leadership is closest to the people and represents the first layer of governance. A state of art office was officially handed over by the MEC of CoGHSTA, Mr Basikopo Makamu accompanied by the MEC of Public Works, Roads & Infrastructure, Dr. Monicca Mochadi to Rambuda Traditional Council Office on Saturday, 14 March 2020. The brand new Traditional Council Office has opened its doors of access to service delivery to ease community from travelling long distances.

Speaking during the event, on behalf of the Premier, MEC for CoGHSTA, Mr. Basikopo Makamu said the handing over of the Traditional Council Office is part of government's mission to support the institution of Traditional Leadership which represents over 80% of people in this province. He continued by saying that the Office will benefit community, traditional council and different government stakeholders and other sister departments. He said the Premier of the Province in his State of The Province Address, spoke about Government recognizing Traditional Royal Leadership. "We will continue to support our traditional councils by building nice offices like this." said Makamu. "Supporting this institution is therefore part of deepening participatory democracy and enhancing service delivery to rural communities". He added.

In conclusion MEC for CoGHSTA urged the community to take the precautions about the Corona Virus, and indicated that we must always wash hands with soap and water, no need to buy expensive sanitizers. The official handing over of the new Rambuda Traditional Council was also graced by among others, His Majesty King Mphephu Ramabulana, Senior Traditional Leaders and the Indunas.
